

PROJECT

About Us

Project99 provides child-centered and family focused Intensive In-Community and Behavioral Assistant Services to children and families across the State of New Jersey. Services are primarily rendered to males and females between the ages of five and eighteen with emotional and behavioral challenges. Project99's counseling services are designed to strengthen the family unit and improve the youth's functioning in his/her natural environment. Our goal is to enhance the quality of life in communities by providing culturally competent services that empower children and families.

Project99 was founded in January of 2004; by two dedicated men, Zachary Simmons-Glover and the late Patrick Pasteur, who graduated high school in the year 1999. Realizing the importance of success through leadership and positive partnerships these gentlemen made a vow that they would dedicate their lives to developing innovative programs and services that would bring change to disadvantaged communities. In keeping to their pledge: Project99 has been marked as their initial stride toward uplifting communities one family at a time.

Our Services

Behavioral Assistant Services (BA)

Behavioral Assistance Services are specific, outcome-oriented services designed to augment other mental/behavioral health services included in a child/youth's comprehensive treatment plan. Behavioral Assistance Services is a dynamic process of interventions designed to target specific behaviors that are interfering with a child/youth's functioning. It includes ongoing evaluation resulting in effective modification of a child/youth's identified behavior(s). They are components of an approved, written, detailed individualized behavioral assistance treatment plan prepared by a licensed clinical behavioral health care practitioner. Behavioral Assistance Services are designed to support the recipient at the time of day when the services are most needed and when the family may be most receptive to therapeutic intervention and skills training.

The goal of Behavioral Assistance Services involve applying positive behavioral principles within the community using culturally based norms to foster adaptive outcomes to enhance a child/youth's behavior by developing and strengthening skills. The interventions utilized by the behavioral assistant should result in sustainable positive behavioral changes that improve functioning in a variety of life domains, including but not limited to, interpersonal relationships, social interaction, behavioral conduct, and the development of effective coping skills for a child/youth and his or her primary caregiver in support of goals in a comprehensive treatment plan.

Intensive In-Community Services (IIC)

Intensive In-Community Services are flexible, multi-purpose, in-home/community clinical support services for parents/caregivers/guardians and children/youth with behavioral and emotional needs. The purpose of these IIC Services is to strengthen, stabilize and preserve the family unit in the community setting. IIC services are flexible both as to where and when they are provided. Intensive In-Community Services are designed to support the recipient at the time of day when the services are most needed and when the family may be most receptive to therapeutic intervention and skills training. This family-driven treatment is based on targeted needs identified in a comprehensive treatment plan. The treatment plan also includes specific intervention(s) with target dates for accomplishment of goals that focus on the restorative functioning of the child/youth with the intention of:

- Stabilizing the child/youth's behavior(s) that led to the crisis
- Preventing/reducing the need for inpatient hospitalization
- Preventing the movement of the child/youth's residence
- Preventing the need for out-of-home living arrangements

Intensive In-Community Services also aid in facilitating a child/youth's transition from an intensive treatment setting, back to his/her community. Services are delivered with the goal of diminishing the intensity of treatment over time. The following are some of the possible interventions that may be implemented.

- Individual and family therapy
- Clinical consultation/evaluation
- Child/youth behavioral management
- Family counseling/psycho-education

Mentoring Services

The knowledge, advice, and resources a mentor shares depend on the format and goals of a specific mentoring relationship. A mentor may share with a mentee (or protégé) information about his or her own career path, as well as provide guidance, motivation, emotional support, and role modeling. A mentor may help with exploring careers, setting goals, developing contacts, and identifying resources. At Project99 we believe that an effective mentor understands that his or her role is to be dependable, engaged, authentic, and tuned into the needs of the mentee. We recognize the importance of a child having a caring responsible adult in their lives. For children who come from less than ideal circumstances, mentoring can be a critical ingredient towards positive youth outcomes.

Tutoring Services

Our Tutoring Program is designed to help those students who are having difficulties in a course because of a particularly challenging subject matter, gaps in their preparation, or other factors. Project99 tutors are individuals who have performed well in specific courses and who have been trained in tutoring policies and techniques. Our tutoring program is available to children of all ages.

Needs Assessments (BPS)

IIC Biopsychosocial Assessments, are akin to a biopsychosocial assessment. They provide critical information from the youth and his or her immediate supports about strengths, needs, preferences and vulnerabilities. Such assessments are fundamental to ensuring that youth and their families become engaged in the most appropriate type, intensity and frequency of care.
