Overview

The New Jersey Integrated Mental Health Conference (NJIMHC) is a pivotal event focused on fostering collaboration and innovation within the mental health, behavioral health, and holistic wellness fields. The conference brings together practitioners, experts, and leaders for a comprehensive day of professional development, networking, and education. Attendees can earn up to 6 Continuing Education Units (CEUs) while engaging with cutting-edge practices in integrated mental health.

Mission Statement

The NJIMHC aims to advance mental health practices through the integration of various health disciplines, promoting person-centered, holistic approaches to mental well-being. The conference creates opportunities for collaboration, education, and professional growth, enabling participants to implement new insights into their work and communities.

Conference Theme: Integrated Mental Wellness Across the Lifespan

This year's theme emphasizes integrated mental wellness across the lifespan, highlighting the importance of intentional, holistic support at every stage of development. By viewing families and communities as vital systems of care, the conference promotes inclusive, coordinated mental health approaches. From early childhood to older adulthood, the focus is on fostering resilience, connection, and continuous support through life's transitions and challenges.

HEAR FROM PAST ATTENDEES

Loved the experience of attending a conference outside of ACA or NJCA that was geared towards specific topics of mental health and treatment options. Would've loved a 2 day conference for even more presentations!

“

The topics discussed were interesting and informative. There was a lot of vendors and information available.

“

The workshops I attended were really good! I found the conference to be interesting and learned new things to implement into my work.

“

Made connections and learned so much about various integrated practices both in break out sessions and in exhibits.

“

The workshops were informative, the networking was helpful and the experience was comfortable and satisfying.

“

Unique sponsors and break outs that offered discussion and education around integrated/holistic treatment.
